

VOTERS OF GOSHEN SHOW ENTHUSIASM FOR MISS O'KEEFE

Give Hearty Reception to Woman Candidate at Rally
Held Last Night.

GOSHEN, Nov. 4.—Miss Esther O'Keefe, Democratic candidate for representative from the 12th Indiana congressional district, scored another decided triumph in her campaign tour of the district when she spoke here tonight before an audience of 500 persons, which completely filled the Lincoln theater.

The theater was filled to capacity long before the meeting started and several hundred persons who sought admission were unable to enter the building.

Miss O'Keefe was introduced by Miss Ella M. Burns, a local school teacher, and for many years a neighbor and friend of the candidate.

Miss O'Keefe strongly impressed the audience with her denunciation of the present administration and her statement of the progressive principles on which she expects to be elected. She particularly attacked the Fordney-McCumber tariff law, declaring that it was enacted in the interests of predatory business interests and is adverse to the interests of the average consumer. She also condemned the Beach-Commins rail law.

The candidate declared herself to be unalterably opposed to any curtailment of the debt owed the United States. She reiterated her position of standing "four-square" for a soldier's bonus to be paid in cash.

Miss O'Keefe made a special plea for the election of former Gov. Samuel M. Taylor as United States senator, asserting that he stands for sound constitutional government and represents a high type of citizenship. In expressing her confidence that she would receive the favorable suffrage of the electorate, she stated that while some voters might feel that there was a risk in sending a woman to congress, she felt sure that no woman could do worse than some of the male members of the national legislative body have done.

In condemning action of the present administration, especially in regard to its tax measures, she declared that the farmer, the laboring man and the soldier, in particular, had not received a "square deal" from the administration. Upon concluding her address, Miss O'Keefe received a great ovation from the audience and was recalled to the front of the platform several times to acknowledge the expression of her hearers' enthusiasm.

She was followed by Walter S. Myers, of Indianapolis, a Democratic worker and a world war veteran prominently identified with the American Legion, who endorsed her candidacy and asserted that she should depend upon the support of the great majority of service men.

Miss O'Keefe spoke at Nappanee in the afternoon, being received there also by a large and enthusiastic group of listeners.

MIDDLE COURSE IS POLICY ADVOCATED BY FORMER PREMIER

Lloyd-George Receives Tremendous Ovation as He Re-enters "Fighting Line."

The first thing was to meet the socialist party's challenge to private enterprise. "There never was a time in the history of this country when it could afford less to have an attack of this kind made upon its institutions," he asserted. "Therefore, it is vital to the trade, industry and prosperity of this country that the attack should be repelled and repelled thoroughly and emphatically. The municipal elections demonstrate that the danger from this quarter is not great, but imminent as we have apprehended."

The former premier said he and his colleagues represented "one of the most honorable episodes in the political life of this country." They did what they had done, he declared, "because they consider it to be their patriotic duty to place the interests of their country first and the interests of their party second."

They and I appeal to the nation whose great world is fair play."

JUMPS FOR SAFETY, KILLED BY TRAIN

PLYMOUTH, Ind., Nov. 4.—(Special)—Leslie Middleton, 40, Argos, Ind., was instantly killed here this afternoon when struck by a Lake Erie southbound passenger train at a downtown crossing. Middleton jumped from an automobile driven by Lawrence Kant who remained in the car and miraculously escaped injury.

The accident occurred at about 5:30 o'clock. The train was scheduled to arrive at Plymouth at about 5:00 o'clock but was late. Kant drove his Overland car onto the tracks before he saw the train and Middleton jumped. He was unable to get off the tracks. The train struck the machine a glancing blow and hurled it to the side of the road although Kant was stayed in the car, escaped without injury. Middleton's body was badly mangled.

There was no watchman guarding the crossing owing, it is said, to the lateness of the hour. Middleton is survived by two married daughters.

Monogram Men Honored.

Hustling to town, they crowded every dining room and restaurant in the city while at Notre Dame the Monogram club men were being feasted at the annual Monogram club banquet which was held in the Junior refectory. Here the heroes of other Notre Dame days were honored.

The younger folks in the Homecoming through made merry as they brought to an end the year's event at three add-on dances in the Oliver hotel, the Tribune Auditorium and the Elks club. Others made up theater parties as a concluding diversion.

The future of Homecoming at Notre Dame has been assured by its success in the last three years. Just how great a part of Notre Dame activities it is to become can hardly be forecasted, so rapidly has it increased in popularity among the alumni and friends of the school.

SECRETARY DEFENDS U. S. FOREIGN POLICY

Hughes Points Out Administration's Position in Cleveland Address.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 4.—(By A. P.)—Principles of American foreign policy were described as "simple and ready stated" here tonight by Secy Hughes, speaking before an election mass meeting in support of the candidacy of Rep. Fess for the senate.

"We do not covet any territory anywhere on God's broad earth," Mr. Hughes declared. "We are not seeking a sphere of special economic influence and endeavoring to control others for our aggrandizement. We are not seeking special privileges anywhere at the expense of others. We wish to protect the just and equal rights of Americans everywhere in the world. We wish to maintain equality of commercial opportunity; as we call it the open door. That is not a derogation of anybody else; the door is just as open to others as it is to us. Equality means equality. It does not mean privilege. We desire to see peaceful settlements. We are most desirous to see the world starting again on a sound economic basis, with every people inspired by hope and girded to the highest achievements in the interest of their prosperity. Wherever we have had a chance to promote peaceful settlements in this troubled world we have taken it."

American Foreign Policy.

Mr. Hughes called attention to the arbitral adjustment between Panama and Costa Rica; the ratification of the treaty with Colombia; the Chile and Peru negotiations in the friendly atmosphere of Washington; and the forthcoming Central American arms limitation conference in Washington as illustrative of the American purpose and effort. At more length he drew the picture of the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and the settling of the far eastern adjustments.

As a result of the general atmosphere of the Washington conference, Mr. Hughes said, China and Japan had found it possible to settle the serious Shantung controversy, although that question was not a part of conference proceedings.

"That settlement," he added, "is now being carried into effect. No 'cry of the world' from any quarter of the world had gone unheeded in American and aid in European conference recuperation had been 'lavishly extended' Mr. Hughes said, adding:

"But we cannot change the cherished policies of European states. The policies have their background in history, and have their explanation in national convictions with respect to the requirements of national safety and national aspirations. We now have in Europe a feeling of nationalism in Europe which is readily explained, and this in each case gives aim to national endeavor and determines national policies as to European questions."

Reviews Harding Regime.

"The American policies to which I have referred will gain nothing by being confused with others. Our potential helplessness will be diminished and not increased by mixing in matters that are not our concern and becoming parties to controversies, and partitions of interests and ambitions that are not ours. We have a great influence for peace and helpfulness in this world and we propose to preserve it and the best way to preserve it is to maintain our own definite American position unconfused and obscured."

Mr. Hughes reviewed the 20 months of President Harding's administration saying he thought it "fair to say that no one would have supposed that as much could be accomplished in that period as has been achieved under the present administration."

He added that he was glad of the opportunity of attributing the gains made to the "wise and high minded statesmen and stateswomen" and to the president of the United States.

"The president," he said, "has given us effective and constitutional leadership."

"What the American people wanted has been done," Mr. Hughes declared and they know that the credit is not due to those who have obstructed but to those who have helped."

PRINCE HITS LINE OF PHOTOGRAPHERS, BUT IS THROWN FOR LOSS

DOORN, Holland, Nov. 4.—(By I. N. S.)—Prince Etel, arriving here today to attend the wedding tomorrow of the ex-kaiser had a clash with photographers posted outside the former monarch's grounds.

Carrying his spiked helmet wrapped in cloth, the prince tried to rush by the photographers. As one snapped, the prince became angry. Finding it was impossible to escape, he finally turned around and posed, saying:

"All right, fire away and get it over with."

The prince was forced to bring his spiked helmet and high boots, as such attire was ordered by the ex-kaiser in his invitation to the ceremony.

PARTY LEADERS CLAIM VICTORY NEXT TUESDAY

Hull Predicts Marked Gains, Adams Says G. O. P. Will Retain Control.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN,
(C. P. Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The congressional and state election campaign of 1922 was being wound up today, while rival party leaders prepared formal statements predicting victory.

Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican national committee, both claimed victory today for their respective parties in the congressional contest.

"We will register marked gains," said Hull.

"We will retain control of both houses; there is no doubt of that outcome," said Adams.

More formal and detailed predictions will be issued later by both chairmen. Adams probably will give out his official claims later today and Hull, Sunday or Monday. Republicans do not dispute the Democratic claim that gains will be registered in the house. But they do dispute the extent of those gains and insist their reports show that Republican control will be such as a normal Republican year brings about.

"There will be no landslide for either side, leaders of both parties agree. Unless they were wrong in their reading of the signs they think the country will fall back into its normal political division more nearly than was the case in 1912 and 1920."

The principal battle grounds in Tuesday's balloting will be Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Washington, Wyoming, Texas, Rhode Island and Minnesota.

In these states the most spectacular campaigns for seats in congress have occurred. In Illinois, Massachusetts and Ohio, the people will vote on the restoration of beer and light wines and in most of the other states this issue enters somewhat into the elections.

Perry was taken into custody May 23, last, on complaint of a local girl charging a statutory offense. The case went over for preliminary hearing before Judge DuComb and in the meantime Perry, released on bonds, left for parts unknown.

E. H. Sommerer, attorney for John Graf, who went the defendant's bond, Saturday was prepared to show the local court that Perry was in custody of the Anderson, Ind., police and that Thursday a jury had recommended a minimum sentence of five years in the Indiana state prison for a vicious attack upon an 18-year-old girl of that city. The Anderson offense is said to have been committed two months after his arrest here.

Suit for collection against the bond has never been filed, according to local records.
